

Renewable Energy Law

The reduction of green house gas emissions is critical to the prosperity and wellbeing of humankind. It also represents a significant challenge and an incredible opportunity for those who are willing to take part in the development of sustainable solutions. Recognizing the challenges which face industry participants, the Renewable Energy Group at Dale & Lessmann LLP has been at the forefront of these major developments.

The Renewable Energy Group at Dale & Lessmann is an interdisciplinary team of legal professionals serving businesses across Canada and internationally. Our lawyers are at the forefront of recent industry developments as we work with key global participants in Canada's growing renewable energy sector.

Our group brings legal expertise in:

- project development
- project financing
- security documentation and creditor agreements
- real estate acquisition and easement/option registration
- power purchase agreements
- operation and maintenance agreements, construction agreements
- permitting and licensing

To our international clients we offer additional expertise on how to become successful in the Canadian marketplace. Our firm has a longstanding tradition in advising international and in particular European corporations. We provide legal advice to newcomers in the Canadian market and to established companies trying to expand their North American business. Our international clients are serviced by multilingual lawyers with a profound understanding of the global business world. Together with our clients we establish domestic legal structures and processes that are complimentary to the objectives of the parent corporation.

Dale & Lessmann LLP has represented several of Canada's leaders in renewable energy and biofuels and has acted on behalf of developers, underwriters, lenders, suppliers, equipment manufacturers and private and institutional equity investors from across Canada, the United States and the European Union in recent years.
